Section 127

September 1842

Words of Joseph Smith

"Thursday, September 1, 1842 - During the forenoon in the Assembly Room, and in the afternoon at home, attending to business. Wrote the following: A Letter from the Prophet to the Saints at Nauvoo - Directions on Baptism for the Dead [Doctrine and Covenants 127]." (History of the Church 5:142)

A Word of Explanation

From the above statement, it is not possible to ascertain whether the letter that became Section 127 was written in the Red Brick Store (which is where the Assembly Room and the Prophet's office were located), or at his home (the Homestead), where he also "attended to business."
